“A Clockwork Shitshow” is a rap musical inspired by “A Clockwork Orange”. It tells the story of a group of young hooligans led by a cruel, immoral, and ruthless lover of Beethoven and Skepta: Lex. In the fumes of skunk and drill, they roam the districts of Wrocław in search of excitement and fun, through nightclubs and filthy townhouses, through random beatings and gang fights. Sex, drugs and hi-hats drive the gangsters, and Lex in particular, to their worst crimes.

He is then given a second chance - to undergo innovative psychological therapy in exchange for his freedom.

How much freedom are we willing to sacrifice for order, and how much order are we willing to sacrifice for freedom?
